Art Unit: 1761

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.
2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

3. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it is not in a single paragraph format. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).
4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in-
 - (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
5. (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

Claims 1-7 and 20 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gotoh et al.

Art Unit: 1761

Gotoh et al edible oils which contain 1,3-diglycerides in an amount of at least 40%, preferably at least 45% and more preferably at least 50%. The oil is used to fry noodle to make fried noodles. (See column 2 and example 3)

Since the oil is the same as claimed, it inherently has all the characteristics as claimed.

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35

U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

8. Claims 8-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gotoh et al in view of Greene et al.

Gotoh et al do not disclose the frying time and temperature, the ingredients, the steps of forming the noodles and reconstituting the noodles.

Art Unit: 1761

Greene et al disclose a method of preparing fried noodles. The method steps are as set forth in example 1. The noodles are made of wheat flour and other ingredients such as Kansui solution, gum, maltodextrin etc. are added. The noodles are fried at a temperature of 125-160 degree C for a time of 15-70 seconds. (See col. 4 lines 49-55, col. 5 and example 1)

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to use a conventional process such as that taught by Greene et al to prepare the noodles which are fried in the oil of Gotoh et al. It would also have been obvious to reconstitute the noodles when they are prepared for consumption. It would also have been obvious to fry the noodles at the time and temperature taught by Greene et al because they teach the conventional time and temperature to fry noodles to make fried noodle. It would also have been obvious to add egg powder if an egg noodle is desired and it would have been obvious to add an antioxidant for its well known function. The amount can be determined by one skilled in the art through routine experimentation.

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Miyazaki et al disclose method of making fried instant noodles.
